Pioneering Resource on First Aid to Cultural Heritage Now Available

First Aid to Cultural Heritage in Times of Crisis is a two-part publication created for the various actors involved in an emergency. It provides a practical method and a set of ready-to-use tools for securing endangered cultural heritage, both tangible and intangible. The user-friendly workflows help readers to plan and implement coordinated cultural rescue and risk reduction operations that involve local communities, heritage custodians, emergency responders and humanitarians.

ICCROM's 2017 Annual Report

Read about ICCROM's activities in 2017, from the successful thematic session "Recovery and Community Involvement in Post-Conflict Reconstruction" held during ICCROM's 30th General Assembly, to the vast array of training courses, knowledge collaborations, cooperation with our Member States and public information/advocacy initiatives organized around the world.

ICCROM Receives Prestigious Gold Award of the Annual SAP Quality Awards

ICCROM has won this year's Gold Award, Fast Delivery category of the annual SAP Quality Awards. This annual prize is bestowed on corporations and other organizations for excellence in the introduction of information systems. The awards were handed out in Milan on Thursday 18 October by SAP executives at the SAP NOW event.

Course on Management & Monitoring of World Heritage Sites in Macao

From 8 – 19 October, the Course on Management & Monitoring of World Heritage Sites was held in the Historic Centre of Macao SAR, China. Lasting two weeks, the course provided ten international participants and 13 Chinese participants with theoretical lectures and on-site practice, using the Historic Centre of Macao as a case study. Senior experts from ICCROM, mainland China and Macao gave guidance during the course.

World Heritage Leadership - Nordic-Baltic Course on World Heritage Procedures

On 24-28 September 2018, ICCROM, IUCN, and ICOMOS jointly delivered a course for participants from all the Nordic and Baltic countries on the specific procedures and structures of the World Heritage Convention. The course was generously hosted by the city of Bergen on the premises of the University of Bergen.

Reorganize your collections in storage – a new RE-ORG resource kit

ICCROM, CCI and the Ibermuseums Program are pleased to offer a new RE-ORG resource kit for free download in English, French, Spanish and Portuguese. More than 55 000 museums exist in the world, and typically 90% of their objects are in storage rooms. As collections grow, financial resources continue to dwindle, leaving museums struggling to ensure that their treasures in storage are adequately looked after and accessible. RE-ORG responds directly to this issue.

Gaël de Guichen's Archive Donation

On 10 October 2018, ICCROM's Director General, Webber Ndoro, and Gaël de Guichen signed an agreement for the donation of Mr. de Guichen's archive to ICCROM. The aim is to ensure both conservation and access to researchers of these valuable records.

Japanese Paper Conservation Course held in Tokyo

The 2018 edition of the International Course on Japanese Paper Conservation (JPC) was held from 29 August to 17 September in Tokyo, Japan. This highly specialized, three-week event brought together ten heritage professionals from around the world. For the first time, colleagues from Fiji and Zambia joined the course.

New open access publication on research impact

In line with its commitment to promoting open access to knowledge and information, ICCROM is happy to share the Accepted Manuscript (AM) of an article recently published in Studies in Conservation on 'Enhancing Research Impact in Heritage Conservation', by Theodoros Katrakazis, Alison Heritage, Cath Dillon, Petra Juvan and Stavroula Golfomitsou.

ICCROM to participate in National Museum of Brazil restoration

ICCROM joined UNESCO on an Emergency Mission for the National Museum of Brazil from 13 to 23 September 2018. Experts met with Brazilian authorities and national and local actors involved with the Museum, and took part in two technical visits to the site. The aim is to help the country define what will be the next steps for recovery.

RE-ORG Chile

In the framework of the Chilean national strategy, the National Centre of Conservation and Restoration (CNCR) and the National Sub-Directorate of Museums (SNM), both of which are under the structure of the National Service for Cultural Heritage of Chile, have organized a course to re-organize the storage and deposit areas of the Cerrillos National Centre for Contemporary Art (CNAC).

Community and Heritage: a public consultation campaign for Lake Ohrid

The Lake Ohrid region is home to one of the world's oldest lakes and is one of Europe's most important biodiversity hotspots. The surrounding region is also significant for its cultural heritage within and linked to the natural setting.
